About Tourettes Action

Our vision is a world where people with Tourette Syndrome (TS) receive the practical support and social acceptance they need to help them live their lives to the full.

We help people with TS to be included in education, at work and in society, throughout their lives. We also support research to improve their quality of life.

Contact us to request an information pack, with a list of doctors in the UK familiar with TS.

Tourette Syndrome ID CARDS

“When people are staring at me, I give them a card and walk away.”

The symptoms of Tourette Syndrome can be hard to explain and sometimes lead to misunderstanding.

We developed our ID cards to help people with TS provide evidence of their diagnosis and explain their symptoms, with something that will easily fit in their pocket or wallet.

In a recent survey, 100% of ID card users said they would recommend the scheme to others.

The pack consists of a photo ID card stating that the bearer has been diagnosed with Tourette Syndrome and a pack of business cards that explain the symptoms of TS and possible medications and give details of where you can go for further information.

“Even if you don't use it much, it gives you extra confidence and I found I went to places that I'd previously avoided.”

“It means I don't have to talk to strangers if I don't want to, or find the right words to explain.”

“It is a quick and easy way to inform others, especially my new teachers, about my condition. I got my first card at the age of 11 years when I was unable to explain Tourette Syndrome. I was too shy and embarrassed.”

This card is issued by Tourettes Action to help people understand the symptoms of TS.

Tourette Syndrome (TS) may make people behave in a way that can appear to be bizarre, challenging and even objectionable. However, the symptoms are involuntary. Although some people with TS may be able to suppress them for a while, they will eventually have to release them.
